CHOIR SINGER PUT ON TRIAL

Clare Rogers Case Is Called in Federal Court; Bain Jury Is Discharged.

Clare Rogers, former choir singer in El Paso churches, is on trial in the federal court under an indictment charging him with having abstracted $25,000 from the United States mail. Monday morning's session of the court was taken up in the selection of a jury.

A special venire of 15 men was summoned to complete the panel of jurors. At noon the questioning of prospective jurors was completed and Judge Henry D. Clayton ordered a brief recess while the opposing attorneys retired to discuss the selection of a jury.

Rogers had been employed in the El Paso postoffice for some time prior to his arrest last fall, following the alleged disappearance of $25,000 in currency, which had been mailed by the First National of El Paso to a banking institution in New York City. At his examining trial his bond was fixed at $20,000.

Mar Chung and Woo Sing, who were fined $50 Saturday by Judge Clayton on a charge of opium smoking, appeared in court today that they were unable to furnish the money and were sent to the county jail for a two month's residence.

The jury in the trial of William F. Bain, charged with violating the Mann "white slave" act, discharged Saturday night and was discharged by Judge Clayton. The jury was out for 12 hours and failed to agree. The case will be tried at the October term of court.

STATE HIGHWAY BETWEEN LAS CRUCES AND PARK TO BE MADE TEST ROAD

Septa Fe, N. M., April 19.—Oiled roads will be given a thorough test on the Camino Real between Las Cruces and Mesilla Park, state engineer James A. French declared after his return from an inspection trip of the roads in southern New Mexico.

He also reported the condition of the road between Selden and Anthony, in New Mexico, to be much better than the asphalt road from the Texas state line to El Paso.

Mr. French stated the trip to El Paso by way of Canutillo and Deming and returned over the Camino Real for the entire distance except for a small stretch of road between Mesilla Park and the Las Cruces. Mesilla Park, oiled road would start within the present month and was to be made as a test to compare it with the gravel road now reported to be under construction.

The Camino Real has been completed to within a mile of Selden. There are two construction camps at Los Lunas, Valencia county. For the entire distance from Socorro to San Marcial the road is in good condition. Between San Marcial and Elmoreford there is need for new surfacing and until this is done the road will be a "rough" road.

From San Marcial to Canutillo, on the west side of the river, the road is open for traffic and is in good condition. South of Canutillo the road is not in good condition on account of its rough surface. It is being improved by the state.

SCOTT REFUSED TO FEED WHITE HELP IN DINING ROOM; NEGRO HAS BROKEN JAW

Preliminary hearing of Hardy White, Harry Mack and C. L. Mullen, charged with assault to murder Jerry Scott, the negro who in a pistol duel at the Borderland inn on April 1, shot and killed Harry C. Nangle and wounded Hardy White, began in Justice J. M. Deaver's court Monday morning.

During the morning, two witnesses testified that Scott, who was broken down sufficiently to enable him to talk, told the story of how Nangle and White broke his jaw and of receiving several bullet wounds when he was fired upon by Nangle. Hardy White said he saw a man who fired from a shed, he said.

Porter Testifies. Arthur Hamilton, a porter at the Borderland inn, testified that the trouble arose over the question of whether Scott would feed the help in the dining room. A list of names before the shooting, he heard Nangle say about Scott: "He is liable to be carried out in a box. I'm not to be fed with."

A few minutes after "Clancy" left, two Mexicans brought Hardy White into the room through the front door. White said that he saw the cause of it all. "Red" Polly and I carried him to his room and took off his clothes. There was a scuffle on him but his gun was gone.

Mark Mackey Testifies. Harry Mackey, a voluntary witness, stated that he went with Jerry Scott to see his grip packed after the negro had been put off just prior to the shooting. "I told him to be careful for the white help did not feel kindly towards him," Mackey said.

Mack also told of seeing a white man chasing a negro about three blocks from the inn and ran in that order for about one-third of a mile. He stated that he went out and found Clancy in a dying condition.

Steal Medicine Cases of Carrizozo Physicians to Get Drugs.

Carrizozo, N. M., April 19.—Since the federal law against the sale of that class of drugs commonly known as "habit drugs" was passed, Carrizozo physicians are training all children of all nationalities to become good Americans in the second and third generations.

Drug stores in Carrizozo have been impeded by the lack of their drugs, several of them being so insistent as to make it necessary for the proprietors to resort to secret measures in order to make them thoroughly understand that there was absolutely no hope to be held out to them at these places. They then hounded the physicians.

One man entered the office of Dr. Lucas, which is at his home, and ransacked his medicine cabinet. Mrs. Lucas was alone. Later, the intruder was almost on his knees before the doctor, begging for relief. He was turned over to the authorities. Another one watched the doctor's office, and when he dropped in one day, he was carrying a case in it while he went into the office for a moment. He was found with the case in his hands and all the contents had been extracted. But nothing else taken. Dr. Paden, the county physician and local surgeon for the southwestern part of the county, was called to his home. Starting to answer a call he could find neither case. Some time afterwards, Lucy Bricker, a telephone operator, hearing of the doctor's loss, reported having seen two grips near the drug store in order to get them, and upon investigation, they proved to be the stolen property. In this case, also, only those bottles were taken which contained morphine.
